HUNGRY WORKERS
STORM AN OFFICE.

Trolley Workmen Surround the Pay Headquarters of Contractor McBean.

POLICE RESERVES CALLED

Red Tape Regulations Make the Men Desperate After Waiting for Their Money.

The office of D. D. McBean, contractor for the Second Avenue trolley road, at Third Avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street, was in a state of siege all day yesterday. His main office, at No. 203 East Forty-second street, was in a similar condition later in the day, but the siege was raised about 4:30 o'clock, and all hands went to storm the citadel at Third Avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street.
The trouble was that several hundred workmen who wanted to be paid were shut out of the two offices for twenty-four hours. No one could tell what was wrong. Many of the men who had worked more than a fortnight and had families to support were in need. Several were threatened with dismissal proceedings.
An elaborate system had been introduced by which the workmen did not know what they were to be paid, and they were to be paid by the day or when they were to be paid. A crowd of the workers gathered early at the "timekeeper's" office, Third Avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street, and demanded pay. Some were desperately hungry; some had hungry families at home.
A messenger was sent by the people in the office to the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Station. Five minutes later Captain Creedon appeared with fifteen police, under Sergeant Magan and two roundmen.
They made the hungry men clear the sidewalk and interposed a surly "Move on!" when any showed time papers and asked why he wasn't paid.
Previous to this about twenty men at One Hundred and Twelfth street and Third Avenue had gone on strike. They wanted money, too.
Soon after this a foreman named Ashley had dismissed two men at the request of Contractor McBean. Forty of the iron workers promptly went on strike, but that was only an incident.
The new rules governing the employment of the men provided that the men were to be paid fortnightly. Some of the men who had to wait for a fortnight could not afford to do so. They had to leave the employ of the company in order to get money promptly.
One of these men said he was dispossessed early in the day and had to get cash before he could get new quarters.
Of the crowd which gathered early at No. 203 East Forty-second street, some got their money, but far more failed.
There were rumors that hundreds were discharged and that their places were being filled by applicants and favorites of nominees for city offices.
Contractor McBean, when seen, said:
"The men are paid fortnightly. Those whose fortnight expired on October 9 have all got their envelopes, except some who did not call in time, and they are being paid as fast as possible. With 1,200 employees we can't have everything running like oil."
In answer to a complaint that the iron workers had been promised $2 a day and received only $1.50 and $1.75, he said:
"The men came to work unconditionally and were to be paid according to their grade. Some received $1.75, some more."

Contractor McBean admitted that several hundred men were discharged, but said it was because they were not skilled. He also admitted that some had been taken on in their places on the recommendation of individuals.
"But this is not politics," he added.
The hungry men surrounding the office at One Hundred and Tenth street became desperate. They had been sent down to Forty-second street and were backempty-handed. They tried to storm the doors at One Hundred and Tenth street.
The police patro was sent there, and ten of the protesters were sent to the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Station.
Michael Haggerty and Patrick Callahan were pulled in on the charge of fighting and assaulting a man named Clair. The others were charged with being drunk and disorderly. Two of them were sitting exhausted with waiting all day before they were lifted into the wagon.
When an attempt was made to straighten out things, some of the men got time tickets, others got envelopes addressed to the "timekeeper." On the other side of the envelope were printed the words "Do not open this envelope. The paymaster will not pay you your wages if this envelope is opened."
This meant that no matter how many hours they worked, they must take whatever the paymaster was told to give them.
Many of the protesters accepted the conditions. Others declared that they would not take pay on such terms.
A messenger was sent to the office to return again to-day. Most of them got nothing but insults and abuse.
THIS IS THE LAST DAY FOR REG-ISTRATION.

BANDA ROSSA WELCOMED.

Italians and Others Throng the Grand Opera House to Listen and Applaud.

Sonsa may well look to his laurels. A rousing reception was accorded to Maestro Engenio Sorrentino, conductor of the Banda Rossa, which gave its first concert last night in the Metropolitan Opera House.
Of course the audience was made up chiefly of Italians. The opera house was well filled. In the programme Italian compositions were favored, though compositions of French and German masters were played.
The programme opened with the overture from "William Tell." Signor Colaneri played a fantasia on Garibaldi's Hymn.
Margaret von Valhsel sang an air from "Faust," and Carlotta Staben-Ranch played a violin solo.
The Banda Rossa di San Severo is the red band of San Severo, so called, because of the color of the uniform worn. It is not a military band, but a body of musicians brought together in 1883 in a town of 20,000 inhabitants in the Province Caputano.
At the Columbus celebration in Genoa, in 1882, the band won the gold medal in competition with sixty-four other bands.
The strong points of the band are the quality of the tone produced, the precision of its playing, its eloquence of expression and the depth and variety of sentiment.
There will be two concerts to-day at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m. A concert will be given Sunday night. The Banda Rossa will remain in this city about two weeks, and in the country about two months.

Francis Wilson in a Runaway.

Francis Wilson, the comedian, and George H. Deveau, a real estate broker, of New Rochelle, were thrown from a carriage at New Rochelle, yesterday, by the breaking of the running gear. Mr. Deveau's right foot caught and he was pinned under the carriage top. The horses started to run, and after Wilson caught the bridle.
He was dragged some distance, but stopped the horses close to a child standing in the road.

Wanamakers

You cannot afford to be indifferent to the news of this store. Less than a year old, it has yet entered into the life of New York in an earnest, positive and effective way.
The store is crammed full of goods —a splendid aggregation of stocks.
All that can be told of them here are merely hints—just bubbles upon the great merchandise tide that ebbs and flows here daily.

Crystal Steel Ware

Civilized cooks cannot cook without steel hollow-ware. A kitchen is a happier place if agate-ware is abundant. Of all the sorts of such wares, none has ever surpassed the

On Monday we opened a vast stock of it, in all the many forms that are needed for housekeeping. Bought

Bicycles

Exact finish, perfect adjustment, great strength, uniform quality.
These elements have made the Humber wheels absolutely peerless. Our contracts with the Humber company included the purchase of the entire stock for 1897. We are rapidly closing them at $65 for the $115 Humber Roadsters, $75 for the $122.50 Lady Humpers.
It is only four weeks since the distribution began. Each day lessens the chance to get one at present prices.
Falcon Bicycles, 1897 models They are high grade—only such are admitted to our stock. They are the exact duplicates of wheels that have been selling at $60 to $100. Women's, $27.50. Men's, $26.50.
Also a full assortment of Falcon Bicycles, just made, at $24, for either men's or women's. They are in all essential points 1897 models. The low price results from a sun-pleasure contract by which the Yoc Company assembled all their stock of parts into completed bicycles, and sold them to us at a round-up rate.

WOMEN'S DOMET FLANNEL NIGHT SHIRTS, 40c.

Just 1,200 of them here to be sold in one day.
They have been counted good value at 75c, but an incident brings them to us to be sold at 40c. each. As this is less than the wholesale values, we must limit the number sold to each customer to three. Neat checks and stripes, pearl buttons, full size—and FORTY CENTS!
Ninth street.

THE SWELL GOLFING SCARF

It is the "Larchmont," made from cardinal French flannel, pique collars. $1. With the men's furnishings, Broadway and Ninth

CONFECTIONS Here's richness!
A new importation of French glacé fruits, the very fine ones, that sell at 50c up to $1 a Delicious they are,—and think of the price!

Four of the eight massive volumes of Ridpath's History

all the nations since history began.

braid, $5.75.

Babies' Caps, all sizes.

WOMEN'S SHOES

No class of goods, perhaps, furnishes a better illustration of the peculiar character of the Wanamaker store than shoes.
Immense orders, that enable us to keep various factories constantly busy, each on the sort of shoe that it can make better than any other; scientific organization of production, from the leather to the finished shoe,—these result in economies of cost undreamed of in other shoe businesses.
Compare a Wanamaker shoe with others at the same price; you'll notice that where the others are skimmed, ours are liberal. Where the other makers have evidently been saving cost, ours have been crowding values in.
Take two grades of women's shoes as illustrations.
First, our $2.60 Shoes. Six styles, button boots; made from the finest, softest kidskin, with oak-tanned soles, welted and stitched in shape, fit and appearance fully equal to the usual $4 shoe.
Or take a still lower price, our women's shoes at $1.60. Made from chrome-tanned kidskin, welted and stitched soles; six new and stylish shapes. It has the appearance of a shoe costing double our price. Such value is only possible with the very largest production.
And here's a special bargain—a small lot that will not last long.
About 350 pairs of women's shoes, the balance of several large lots; the regular values run up to $3.50 a pair; many shapes and styles, and all sizes in the lot, but not in any one style. All go at ONE DOLLAR A PAIR
Fourth Avenue and Ninth street.

These suits and over-clothing coats were advertised before; and the result was that the stock on hand was quickly and completely cleaned out.
Probably the buyers looked inside the garments. It is the inside work that sells so much Wanamaker clothing.
Single-breasted sack suits of handsome black or blue cheviot, splendidly made and trimmed, $12 a suit.
Same in double-breasted suit, blue only, $12.
Same, with three-button cutaway frook coat, black only, $12.
And here's a Fall-weight overcoat of black cheviot, silk-lined and very handsomely tailored, for $12,—such a coat as a gentleman appreciates who likes to feel well dressed all the way through.
Second floor, Fourth Avenue.

BOYS' CLOTHING

Three special lots of double-breasted jacket suits, made of the handsome all-wool chevots that don't show dust much, made extra strong, with double seats and knees, for boys who are hard on their clothes, $3.50, $4.50 and $5; sizes 8 to 16 years.

School suits of fancy all-wool chevots, made extra strong, $3.
Handsome fancy chevots, in the patterns

THE OTHER HALF

Four of the eight massive
volumes of Ridpath's History of the World describe the exploits and achievements of all the nations since history began.

Wanamakers

The most comprehensive and scholarly general history ever written. The other four volumes portray man-life from beginning to date. Some idea of the scope of this latter half may be suggested by the following most condensed topical summary.

GEOGRAPHY.—It tells all about and illustrates the mountains, lakes, rivers, seas, gulfs and bays of the entire globe—400 illustrations on "Environment."

THE PEOPLE.—It tells of the origin and development of 400 races of men, from the origin of each race down to the present time and present condition. 1,900 faces of mankind illustrated.

GOVERNMENT.—It traces the evolution of Organic Law from the idea of the "divine right of the king," in ancient Egypt, down through all human governments to the present laws of every country on earth.

RELIGION.—It points out man's struggles after a higher life in every age, from the old Iranian with his "transmigration of the Soul" theory down to the existing religions of every race on earth.

THE FAMILY.—It shows how the Home idea has developed from the time the "House People of Arya" founded the first real home on earth, and the words "Father," "Mother," "Son," and "Daughter" were coined, down to the present, giving the reader a view of every relation men and women have sustained in all times and countries.

THE HOUSE.—It follows the development of Architecture from the primitive houses in the Indus Valley, thousands of years ago, to the Egyptian, Greek, Arabic, and every form of Architecture known to man, past or present.

MANNERS AND CUSTOMS.—It tells how people live, what they eat and wear. All about the home life, holidays and festivals, and thousands of other interesting topics about all the races of the world.

THE INDEX.—All these vast treasures within the reach of the reader in a moment.
The Index is both Alphabetical and Topical, and covers the whole field of humanity.
You get at what you want at once.
